- Our grade level will provide instruction using books at each student's level to meet their individual needs.
- Our grade level will provide instruction within each genre and time for students to practice writing daily.
- Our grade level will provide strategies for adding and subtracting to use when solving real world problems.

At Home. Fair Oaks Elementary School parents joined staff to develop ideas about how families can support students' academic understanding. Families may have other ideas to add to the list.

- Listen to my child read from books at his/her level each day for 20 minutes.
- Use real life situations to discuss when we should add and when we should subtract numbers with my child.
- Challenge my child to write daily.
- Review newsletter and school work by checking his/her backpack and folder every day and provide time and support for homework daily.

Students. Fair Oaks Elementary School students joined staff and parents to develop ideas about how they can succeed in school and reach for the stars.

- Read books at my level for 20 minutes each day.
- Practice adding and subtracting in real life situations using visuals and explanations.
- Apply my understanding of writing with each genre and create pieces that meet grade level standards.
- Set reading, writing and math goals and monitor my progress in my Leadership notebook.
